FOREWORD

A puzzle, unsolved, has no meaning; it is merely perplexing. Each section of our yearbook adds a piece to the puzzle, concurrently completing a record of the various activities at Campbell Central during the past school year.

In these pages are recorded the finest accomplishments of our classrooms, the greatest pleasures of our sports, and the happy comradairé of corridors and lunch rooms.

It is our aim to preserve these impressions so that in years to come all students may return to the Spotlight to relive their school days and to renew acquaintances with teachers and classmates.

DEDICATION

To you, Miss Cahill, we dedicate this yearbook, Spotlight 1964, as a token of our deep appreciation for your outstanding service in the teaching profession.

Your own personal standards of high achievement are ever an encouragement as you hold us each to his greatest effort. In your classroom, social habits, morality, health, and safety have equal importance with the three R's. Many times your sparkling wit and Irish humor have tempered the pain of your discipline which knows no favorites.

Our gratitude for your unfailing support of our numerous activities knows no measure.

Surely your genuine interest and effort have aided in preparing each of us for whatever lies ahead, and as we leave your immediate sphere of influence, we will always think with fondness of you -- the little lady who walks softly and carries a big stick.

MR. WEBSTER CLASS ADVISOR

We, the class of 1964 wish to express our sincere appreciation to you, Mr. Webster, for your guidance throughout our final year.

Concentration.

"Hard at work???"

"Only two more months!"

"Okay genius, tell me more."

"Hold the ladder, you guys!"

"DO something, you jerks!"

"Where's the A?"

"Let me check those rules!"

"Thumb stuck, Rose?"
